

Joplin Memorial Hall stands as a heartfelt memorial to the men and women of Joplin who served in the armed services. The Robert S. Thurman Post of the American Legion spearheaded the community support for construction in July of 1923. By September 12, 1924, on National Defense Day, the City and hundreds from the community celebrated a cornerstone laying ceremony remembering those who fought for freedom for the United States and for people of other countries. Dedication and opening ceremonies were celebrated in October 1925.

Today, Joplin Memorial Hall prides itself on welcoming a wide variety of events from formal auctions to circuses, from premier entertainers to family-oriented arts performances. With concert seating for 2700, or a floor big enough to set up two basketball courts for a tournament, Joplin Memorial Hall is just perfect for various types of events for our community and the residents of the four states.
